The Times

ALL ALONG THE LINE.

The Anaheim Independent is authority for the statement that good artesian water has been found on the farm of Mr. McCullough, near Benedict station, at a depth of 148 feet. That is not a very expensive well and the lucky discoverer may have water to sell to his neighbors before he gets through with it.

The Street Superintendent has been getting along with a small force for some months, and consequently the streets are in very bad condition. He asks for more men, and he should have them. Moreover he should select the men for their ability to do the work required and not for the political interests of Councilmen.

Between the new discoveries of petroleum that are being constantly made in this neighborhood and the increasing amount of electric power now being generated by mountain streams whose waters have hitherto been suffered to run to waste, the southern counties of this State ought to offer great facilities to manufacturers. It is skilled labor that builds up towns and cities.

Apricot jellies and jams, made in London from dried fruit grown in California, are to be found in every grocery store between San Diego and Seattle. Why not work up some of this product at home? If it can be made profitable in England, which produces neither sugar nor apricots, why can it not be made a large source of profit in Southern California, which produces both?

Pineapples are being grown experimentally in San Diego county and, so far, everything favors their production. In the Australian province of Queensland, large quantities of this fruit are produced. Would it not be a good idea to import some pineapple plants from that country and give them a chance alongside of the West India plants that are now growing, so as to determine which is the best plant for Southern California?

It is said that, since the outbreak of the revolution in Cuba, the destruction of growing crops on tobacco plantations has been such as to diminish the yield to so great an extent that cigars hitherto worth $80 per 1000 will be worth $140 before the close of the year. This has led up to a marked advance in the price of Mexican tobaccos and should, incidentally, help those who are beginning tobacco culture in California. San Diego and Riverside counties have already produced good samples of the weed.

Two policemen have demonstrated that the insuperable obstacles multitudinous encountered by the Chinatown squad in its strenuous and heroic endeavors to catch a Chinaman dealing lottery are all moonshine and do not exist in the face of honest purpose. They raided yesterday a game that has been running under the noses of the regular patrol, and they caught a ticket-seller at his work. They did not kick over any dog goods boxes accidentally as they entered the place, nor did they warn all Chinatown of their coming. If they keep up this work, they will diminish the incomes of a few persons besides Chinese lottery dealers.

RESPECT MEMORIAL DAY.

Patriotic Sentiments of Veteran Soldiers of the Union.

HEADQUARTERS BARTLETT-LOGAN POST, NO. 6, Grand Army of the Republic, Los Angeles (Cal.), June 19, 1897.—[To the Editor of The Times:] An editorial published in The Times June 3, under the caption, "The Desecration of Memorial Day," was brought to the attention of the post at our last regular meeting, June 5, and it was the unanimous desire that some official expression relative thereto should be sent to you.

The article covered the ground so truthfully, and so clearly and grandly voiced the sentiment of our people, that we desire to express our great gratitude to you for its publication. We wish that it could be read in every G.A.R. post in the land, and that it might be republished in every newspaper in the United States.

[Seal] C. F. DERBY, Commander.

JOHN DAVIS, Adjutant.

Normal Alumni.

The Alumni Association of the Los Angeles State Normal School met in business session at 2 p.m. Saturday in the auditorium of that building. After the transaction of the regular routine, the following officers were elected to serve during the ensuing year: President, Miss Louise Williams, principal of the Hewitt-street school; vice-president, Mr. Dollard, secretary, Miss Agnes Elliot; treasurer, Mr. Bonelle; trustee, Miss M. E. Reavis. A reception was held in the evening in the Normal gymnasium. After the rendition of a short programme, those who wished enjoyed dancing, while others engaged in competitive games. The programme was as follows: Selection, orchestra. Address to graduates by retiring president, Mr. Tritt. Remarks, by president, Miss Louise Williams. Character sketches, Prof. Dozier. Schoolmasters' Quizzes, Messrs. Willard, Frew, Bonelle, Young. Recitation, Miss Steadman. Vocal solo, Prof. Fosbury. Recitation, Miss Adams. Vocal solo, Mrs. Mitchell. Address, Dr. Pierce, principal of Normal School.

Prohibition Meeting. The prohibitionists and temperance people generally of Los Angeles county will meet in convention in Temperance Temple at 10 o'clock today. They will be addressed by L. B. Scranton in the forenoon and Rev. P. F. Breese, D.D., in the afternoon.

An excellent remedy for insomnia will be found in the famous Old Jesse Moore Whisky taken at bed time. Your druggist has it for sale.

AT THE HEART OF IT.

SPARKS AND FOWLER CARRY THE WAR INTO CHINATOWN.

They Break Up One of the Most Notorious Lottery Joints in the Mongol Quarter and Arrest the Ticket Seller.

Officers Sparks and Fowler, having closed up every lottery joint in the city outside the Chinese quarter, yesterday turned their attention to that hot-bed of crime. At the very first turn they demonstrated that the successful handling of lottery gambling in Chinatown is not such a difficult problem when a little good hard common sense, honesty of purpose and energy of action are brought to bear. Instead of stumbling over their own feet and gazing in yawn-mouthed helplessness at the continued defiance of law and order, these officers go after the criminals and they generally bring back what they go after.

For a long time Wong Yuck's place, at No. 203 Ferguson alley, has been one of the most notorious lottery joints in the Chinese section. Yuck is not more cunning than the average Chinese gambler, yet he found it such child's play to outwit the regular patrolmen that he imagined himself secure from molestation for all time to come. He met with a painful surprise yesterday afternoon when Fowler and Sparks dropped in the joint from the clouds or somewhere else, captured the ticket seller, Wong Hin, and secured enough evidence to stock a Chinese junk shop. It was all done with such a rush that Hin and a wagonload of the gambling furniture were on the way to the Police Station before the surprised Mongols of the neighborhood realized what had happened.

Dr. Kem Sing, who conducted a lottery at No. 233 Mott alley until Fowler and Sparks made it too hot for him to stay, is something of a wag in his way. In deep disgust at the downward turn things have taken in his line of swindling, he yesterday posted the following placard on his door:

"Doctor Kem Sing is off on a Vacation. No More of Me. Patients Please Go Home and Die."

SAN PEDRO.

SAN PEDRO, June 20.—[Regular Correspondence.] The clam bake and dancing was well attended today. While the crowd was not as large today as at the opening last Sunday, fully eight hundred visitors were in evidence. As last week, the dancing proved to be the chief attraction. An hour of intermission was given at 3 o'clock this afternoon that all might witness the tub race, which was a feature of the day. Alfred Wickstrom won the prize of $5, beating the other contestants, Ed Anderson and John McLamara, by several tub lengths. About the time the tub races were being paddled, a fire alarm was rung in from Bunker Hill. The department answered with all the apparatus, included the hook and ladder truck, only to find that the alarm had been rung up by an unduly apprehensive man on account of a grass fire.

The nine-months-old boy of W. W. Norway of Terminal Island died at 2 o'clock this afternoon of cholera infantum. The body will be buried tomorrow, Monday, at Harbor View Cemetery, this city.

Jim Turner was arrested late last night and locked up, charged with disturbing the peace. He will be given a chance to plead tomorrow (Monday) morning.

BACCALAUREATE SERMON BY PRESIDENT EDWARDS.

Commencement Exercises - High Honor Conferred Upon Prof. Chamberlain - Rev. Dr. Fife Addresses the High School Graduates - An Attempted Suicide.

PASADENA, June 20.—[Regular Correspondence.] The baccalaureate sermon of President Edwards, of the Universalist Church, was held at the Pasadena High School this afternoon. The address was an earnest and thoughtful one and was a fitting expression of the relation of cordial friendship that has existed between the Pasadena High School and the Pasadena High School.

President Edwards took for his text "If the Son therefore shall make free, ye shall be free indeed," St. John viii, 36. "The love of freedom," said the speaker, "is inherent in all men. Instinctively they seek to be free. But when the question is asked, who is free? the answer is difficult. The youth is subject to the control of his parents, the business man is the slave of his business, the debauchee, of his evil passions. Evil practices themselves enslave the new law of freedom. Even the Chief Executive of the nation is but the servant of the people. There are none who are free. The motto of feudalism that there is no man without his masters is as true today as in the Middle Ages. What then of the universal longing for freedom? It is not implanted in man's nature to be ungratified. A freedom is attainable which deserves and rewards man's utmost efforts. This perfect freedom is found in Christ. The first requisite to real liberty is control. The vessel which shakes off the control of the helm and the pilot is at the mercy of the wind and the waves. True liberty calls into play all the faculties of the soul. To gain this wider liberty man must first master himself. He shall be a million times freer than he is now."

President Edwards then addressed the members of the graduating class, making application to them of the words he had spoken and urging them to seek the true liberty found in Christian living.

THROOP NOTES.
The graduating exercises of Throop will be held tomorrow (Monday) evening at the Opera-house. Tickets for reserved seats have been issued, but no seats will be held after 8 o'clock. The exercises will be held at 8 o'clock. The address will be made by Rev. Burt Ester Howard of Los Angeles.

The exhibit of the handicrafts of the students which will be in session at the Pasadena High School on Wednesday will be of especial interest. The shops will be in operation between the hours of 10 a. m. and 3 p. m.

Prof. Arthur Chamberlain of Throop expects to go East on Friday and will attend the National Educational Teachers' Association, which will be in session at Milwaukee from July 6 to 9 inclusive. Prof. Chamberlain will have the distinguished honor of being one of four who will be addressed at the convention on the subject of manual training. As the association embraces educators from all parts of the country, the compliment is no slight one.

HIGH SCHOOL BACCALAUREATE.
A large congregation gathered this evening at the Presbyterian Church to hear Rev. Dr. N. H. G. Fife's baccalaureate address to the members of the graduating class of the High School. Dr. Fife took for his theme the idea that every man is called of God for some special work in life, saying that this is the highest and noblest of all duties. He will hold the keys of the building and attend to his duties as usual until the courts are invoked by the other side and out him out of the building. As in a former case the board will probably remove all the locks and take possession, when he will have to take the aggressive. It is said that the verdict, and has been the war now retained in an appointive position in the city, by either city or county government.

ATTEMPTED SUICIDE.
Felipe Moreno, a Mexican living near the San Gabriel Mission, attempted suicide at an early hour this morning by taking chloroform or morphine, but was discovered by his wife. He was taken to a hospital and is now recovering. It is said that he became jealous of the attention paid her by another Mexican. When he returned home early this morning with his wife he swallowed the opiate and became unconscious. Medical aid was summoned, but it is uncertain whether he will recover.

SANTA BARBARA COUNTY.
Spanish Celebration of Corpus Christi at the Mission.

SANTA BARBARA, June 20.—[Regular Correspondence.] The larceny case of J. W. Casbeer against Isaac B. Williams and Kate S. Williams, his son-in-law and his daughter, has turned out to be a tempest in a teapot. After a two-days' trial Judge Price dismissed the case on the ground that the evidence was insufficient to convict. The sixty hens that Mrs. Williams was accused of stealing she has carried for and raised during the past two years with Casbeer's knowledge, and the sewing machine one of the articles said to have been purloined, was a present to Williams. The deeds and notes in question were shown by Casbeer's own testimony to have been given absolutely to the Williams family.

Notwithstanding that Judge Price's decision was against him, Casbeer shook hands very cordially with his Honor.

A man by the name of Stone, during the progress of the trial, came near getting into hot water through his efforts to patch up the squabble. The court informed Stone that his conduct was in the nature of compounding a felony. Stone turned pale and promised not to interfere with justice again.

Corpus Christi was celebrated at the old mission this morning in true Spanish style. Booths were arranged outside the church, inside of which were placed altars. Then there was the usual procession incident to this feast day in old Castile. Hundreds and hundreds of spectators were present and apparently were surprised and interested by the novel sights, Corpus Christi has not been celebrated with such solemnity for more than eleven years. Service began at 9:30 a. m. Father Superior Bernardine acting as celebrant. At the conclusion of the services in the church a procession of the confreres, which passed out of the church to the county road, and making a circuit of the vineyard to Mission street, returned again to the church.

The procession was headed by the Franciscan fathers and brothers, followed by the boys of the Franciscan College, brightly lighted tapers and other church emblems.

The exterior altars were all differently decorated. The one near the county road was rimmed with roses, while the others were placed on Mission street and near the building itself.

The first of the latter was trimmed in blue flowers and the last one in the color of the Native Sons of the Golden West—yellow. At each altar the benediction was pronounced.

Charles Randall, employed at the Pioneer dairy, fell under a train at the station, about 7 p. m. evening and lost his left hand, which was cut off at the wrist.

E. J. Balsden, the bicycle trick rider, is in San Bernardino and yesterday afternoon and in the evening entertained the Barbareños with some wonderful bicycle tricks. He gave an exhibition to a large crowd on the boulevard this afternoon.

SAN BERNARDINO COUNTY.
THE VETERANS WILL STAND BY THEIR GUNS.

A Discharged Janitor Holds the Port, Backed by the Lawyers. Surplus of Pedagogy Talent. Mogolian Tricks not a Winner.

SAN BERNARDINO, June 20.—[Regular Correspondence.] In the appointment of janitors of the different schools of the county, the county board of education stepped pretty hard on the toes of the men who wear the copper button of the Grand Army. One of the number, H. J. Allison, has held the position of school janitor for thirteen years, and has had charge of the High School building since its erection, but in the wisdom of the board it was thought best to replace him with a man who had a pull with the members, and now there is trouble in the camp.

Mr. Allison has secured three of the best lawyers in the city, who all say, "I hold the fort," quoting as their authority for the advice, section 1, of an act of the Legislature approved March 31, 1891, which reads: "In every department, upon all public works, whether under contract or not, in all offices, employments, and positions of trust or profit of this State, honorably discharged ex-Union soldiers, sailors and marines of the war of the rebellion must be preferred for appointment, employment and retention; and age, loss of limb or other physical impairment, which does not, in fact, incapacitate, shall not be a ground for removal, provided they possess the capacity necessary to fill the position, and persons thus preferred or appointed, unless appointed or employed for a definite statutory period, shall not be dismissed from such positions, offices or employments, except upon charges, after a hearing, and the finding of the board of the incumbent, and he is supported by the positive opinion of three attorneys, who propose to see him removed, and who will hold the keys of the building and attend to his duties as usual until the courts are invoked by the other side and out him out of the building."

As in a former case the board will probably remove all the locks and take possession, when he will have to take the aggressive. It is said that the verdict, and has been the war now retained in an appointive position in the city, by either city or county government.

TEACHERS SWARM.
In the selection of teachers for the public schools there is such an overproduction that there must of necessity be many disappointments when the positions are given out. The only remedy available is the one tried here—a reduction of salaries $50 a year or more.

VERDICT NOT INVALID.
The adding of a word or two to the verdict in a Justice Court was the cause of an application for a writ of habeas corpus in the case of the Mogolian knifemaker, You Den, but the Judge held that, while not exactly according to instructions, the form did not impair the verdict, and he directed the Chairman for the Superior Court.

SAN BERNARDINO BREVITIES.
The graduates and alumni of the High School took an outing at the springs Saturday, at which, in addition to a picnic, a baseball game was played, which was won by the former with a score of 10 to 7. N. A. Richards was the official scorer, and owing to discrepancies in his figures there was a protest and the game will be played over.

Dr. Frost, in spite of his 380 pounds and in active demand for his wheeling events, "Just to head the procession," etc., but he thinks it not becoming to his reverend calling to participate, and he has been invited to appear in the Fourth of July parade.

The Ladies of the Eastern Star will celebrate St. John's day next Thursday. There will be a short address by Rev. J. D. H. Browne, pastor of St. John's Church, on his patron saint, and a musical and literary programme, ending up with a basket lunch and dance.

The Sunday afternoon game of baseball between the Wilelands and the Tribbles of Los Angeles resulted in a crushing defeat for the home team, the score standing 19 to 4 in favor of the visitors.

Mrs. Jennie Volk, principal of the Ninth-street school, left Sunday for a visit to her parents at San Jose, taking her children, May and Byrne Volk, with her.

SAN DIEGO COUNTY.

CHINAMEN ATTEMPT TO SNEAK INTO THE UNITED STATES.

But Are Arrested at Tin Juana—A Fight with a Maniac at the St. Joseph Hospital—Historic Ground to be Marked—News Notes.

SAN DIEGO, June 20.—[Regular Correspondence.] Five Chinamen were landed in the County Jail here this morning for attempting to smuggle themselves into the United States from Mexico, near the line, Tin Juana. They were apprehended last night by the customs officer. The Chinamen were afoot, but were making good progress on American soil when apprehended.

VIOLENTLY INSANE.
Dennis Hasset, 50 years of age, who has been at St. Joseph's Hospital for some time, became violently insane yesterday and during his ravings came near killing several people before he could be properly cared for. Early yesterday morning he was examined by a physician and pronounced to be in a very bad condition. The nurse was cautioned to be on his guard and if this caution had not been given Hasset would have been a murderer today. Soon after the doctor left in the morning Hasset managed to get hold of a knife and, opening the blade with one hand, made a lunge at the nurse with evident intent to murder him. The nurse ran out of the ward and Hasset followed with up-lifted hand ready to plunge the knife into his victim. It was a life or death race. In the hall the maniac ran against another man and he immediately tried to stab him, but the intended victim managed to make his escape without sustaining any injury. By this time the nurse had secured a rope and returning, started in to lasso the fiend. This precipitated another conflict, in which the maniac succeeded in getting hold of the nurse's arm and clawed at him like a wild beast, and several times the murderous knife flashed in dangerous proximity to the throat or vital organs of the nurse. It seemed to be with the keeper and finally the maniac was overpowered, disarmed and returned to his room, but not until after he had attempted to brain another man with a chair in an unexpected manner. Later he was removed to the Hospital, where he can be properly looked after.

WILL MARK A HISTORIC SPOT.
San Diego Parlor, No. 108, N. S. G. W., has taken up the matter of marking the site of the battle of San Pascual, and as there are only a few survivors of this battle it is expected to complete the work at an early date as possible. Philip Crosthwaite, one of the remaining participants of the battle, will go out with the party to verify the site and then it is expected that steps will be taken to appropriately mark the same.

SAN DIEGO BREVITIES.

At a meeting of the directors of the Chamber of Commerce of this city, held Friday afternoon, it was decided to have 10,000 copies of a sixteen-page pamphlet, descriptive of San Diego and the bay region, together with the back country, printed and distributed at the International Christian Endeavor convention at San Francisco.

There is some talk here of the Mexican authorities being petitioned to have the body of the mulatto found near Tin Juana exhumed in order that further investigations may be made as to the probable cause of his death.

The collection of city taxes has been a little slower so far this year than last. Up to and including June 18, $28,550 had been collected, which is about $800 less than the amount collected up to the corresponding date last year.

The Board of Supervisors of this county will meet in special session Tuesday, of this week, in order that a conference may be had with the State Legislature while the members of that institution are here.

PANAMINT.
Ruins of the Silver Camp—Gold Found in the Canyons.

RANDSBURG, June 19.—[Regular Correspondence.] The feet of many prospectors are now turned toward Panamint as the mecca where their future fortunes are to be found, and the outlook is encouraging. It is now nearly a quarter of a century since Panamint had its silver boom, and a prosperous town of several thousand inhabitants was then located well up the mountain side, approached by a costly and well-graded toll road from the valley below. Now, when one views the idle mill, the empty warehouses, the deserted dwellings, all falling into decay and ruin, it is hard to realize that lots in this forsaken village, now titleless and absolutely useless, once changed hands and ownership for thousands of dollars each.

In the days when Panamint was a flourishing mining community, only one cañon of the Panamint range was worked. This was Surprise, or Panamint Cañon, entered from the valley about three miles above the present town of Ballyrat. A good wagon road was built up the cañon for several heavy miles. The grade was very high, in some places equaling 1000 feet rise to the mile, and in at least two places the perpendicular rocks of the cañon were so close together at the bottom that some building was necessary in order to attain sufficient width for an ordinary wagon to pass through. Today there is no vestige of a road, and the cañon is a wilderness and it requires great play of the imagination to believe there ever was a road up through the cañon until one reaches the old town and there sees that from by no other route could the lumber in the buildings, the heavy and costly machinery in the huge mill, yet remaining in the cañon, have been brought in except by wagon road up through that wild and precipitous cañon. Water runs in the mountains have in the past few years destroyed every vestige of a road and piled up huge rocks and boulders in the wildest confusion everywhere, so that now only a trail, and it a dim and devious one, threads the cañon from start to finish. In this cañon only silver ore was worked, and so far no other ledges of consequence have been found. So the probabilities are that a wagon road will again be built up old Panamint Cañon.

The only inhabitants of this deserted town are H. G. Chickering, who has been in the district for over twenty years, and James J. Wall, watchman in charge of the property.

These two old men live alone in peace and companionship, one at least not being outside the cañon for years at a stretch, and until the arrival of our party not having seen a world of people for six years, it being that length of time since the last white woman visited the place.

SHOT HIS GUN OFF.

A citizen of Covina gets himself into serious trouble.

A. D. Paul, a wild and woolly citizen of Covina, paid Los Angeles a visit yesterday and incidentally became intoxicated. He was taken to the police station on Sunday the theory of the police is that he must have brought either his whisky or a hold-over tag with him, for he got into a fight with a deputy sheriff and he owned a good slice of the earth and that other detentions of this neck of the vineyard were duly being referred to.

He was accompanied by three friends, also leading lights of Covina, and a great big Colt's double-action 38-caliber gun.

Having enjoyed themselves about town until past midnight, the quartette piled into a buggy and started home. The driver was a young fellow named Paul, who got out his gun as they reached New Main and Soto streets, and blazed away a few times, just to let the sleeping people of the neighborhood know he was in town.

The next minute he heard a stern command to halt and he saw a deputy sheriff pointing a gun at him. At the other end of the six-shooter stood Deputy Constable Mugmelt. At the command of the deputy sheriff, Paul turned about and driven to the police station, where the frisky Mr. Paul was booked on a charge of discharging firearms in the city of Los Angeles.

When taken from him he was excessively solicitous that good care should be taken of it, as he declared it to be the weapon of his grandfather, Chief of Police Hennessy at New Orleans during the Mafia riots.

Paul will appear in the Police Court today and be requested to give an account of himself.

Butterworth on the Nation's Future.

Gen. Butterworth's Memorial day oration at Laurel Hill Cemetery, Philadelphia was a remarkable one. Among other things, he said:

"The dead we mourn are off duty forever. They have kept their watch. Today it is with the living, and not with the dead, we have to do."

"The course of all revolutions has been toward the rocks. Our own is the same, and for the same reason. The theory of our government is that men will preserve that which is theirs most highly. But they do not. It is said that the people love liberty and home above all else, and that they prize most highly that which they would destroy that which makes life worth living. Theoretically that is so. Practically it is not."

"What relation is there between the law and the government? Let this relation be freely understood. Remember, the law that governs the moral world is as certain and inevitable as the law of gravitation. Those who offend must pay the penalty not more certainly in the physical than in the moral world."

"The republic is more in danger today than when Fort Sumter was fired upon. We have plenty of education, but education, unless accompanied with moral training, simply fits the man to be an expert scoundrel. Our country is in danger because corruption in our politics is as common as elections and State Legislatures are as common as luncheon at noon. In almost every man's mind there is a lawless element. There is an organized bandit that demands tribute and sells legislation. We know this to be so. We do not guess. We know it. And it must stop. It will stop the wheels of this republic."

"There are too many men who would scorn dishonesty in private affairs who encourage it in the public. Half of the world is going to the devil because no one will shout out loud. The time has come, if the republic is to be preserved, when we will have to shout out loud. Men sneer at morality in politics, but God knows there is hardly enough left of it in the politics of this country to sneer at. Many sigh and pray for prosperity, and many work themselves up into a belief that prosperity is speedily coming to bless our homes. But my countrymen, you are misled, but think and reason and judge for yourselves. And so thinking and judging, don't you see that before we can bring this country back to reason we must remove the cause that drove and keeps it in exile?"

"Do not forget that the humblest man whose fingers drop a ballot helps to guide the pen that writes the law that makes right or promotes the wrong. If liberty is to be the wrong prevail, we, the people, are to be blamed for we write the law."

"What hope have I for the future? Much hope, but no confident expectation, because I find so many men who for party advantage trample principle under foot. There are many who have grown discouraged and have quit trying to make our politics purer and better."

"I find so many who are willing to buy legislation as they buy corn or wheat. I prefer tyranny to anarchy. There can be no true liberty without law, any more than there can be order in chaos, or health in a diseased body. I have confidence in my countrymen. I have less confidence in some who appreciate the opportunity our free institutions secure, but fail utterly to appreciate the responsibility that freedom imposes."

LETTERS TO THE TIMES.

Some Points On Senator Perkins' Objections to Annexation.

LOS ANGELES, June 20, 1897.—[To the Editor of The Times:—] The mercurial nature of the American people can be no better illustrated than by the way in which some of the statesmen are "blowing hot and cold" (to use a mixed metaphor) upon the Hawaiian question. A change of mind is permissible for any one, but a change from a Cleveland to a Bryan, or from annexation to anti-annexation is too much of a flip not to admit of a statement of the reasons.

"Before or after taking" such change, or that the motive for the flip is not wholly a disinterested one. I am moved to this expression of opinion by the fact that Senator Perkins has not seen fit to be consistent in his views on the Hawaiian question. If his action in the past rightly reflected his opinion on the one hand, and his views, as quoted by the New York World of the 18th inst. (published in the issue of The Times last Saturday), rightly represent his opinion at the present time, the latter interview is a most unfortunate coincidence with his action of four years ago upon the occasion of the adoption by the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce of a set of resolutions hailing "with satisfaction" the offer of the Hawaiian government to cede the islands to this country, and requesting the California delegation in Congress to use its influence in favor of annexation. These resolutions were adopted and, according to the statement of a San Francisco newspaper, ordered telegraphed to Washington upon the motion of George C. Perkins. But then, Claus Spreckels once upon a time also represented himself to be in favor of annexation, whereas, now, if he knows his own mind, the Sugar King is opposed to it.

It must not be forgotten that Senator Perkins, in common with the majority of his colleagues, was strongly opposed to any restoration of the Queen. The writer has in his possession a letter from the Senator, dated January 29, 1894, in which he says:

"I send you the speech of Senator Davis on the (Hawaiian) question; a very able and exhaustive speech. And in it, specifically, what do we find? Senator Davis used the following language in summing up his address to the Senate:

"It is said that we do not want colonies, and that we do not need the Hawaiian Islands. I am not in favor of a colonial system, such as Great Britain has, and such as France is striving for, but I want to see my country well defended, and her hold upon the Pacific Ocean assured. That the Sandwich Islands were, in time, to be an indispensable element of the protection of our coast, and defense of our country, has been a cardinal theory with every statesman who ever sat in the chair of Secretary of State, from the beginning of the question down to the present time, the present occupant (Sec. Gresham) excepted."

Humboldt predicted seventy years ago that the greatest maritime commerce of the planet would be carried on on the Pacific. If you take the globe and look north of the equator, and then to the south of it, you will see that the islands of the Pacific Ocean, except the Sandwich Islands and the Alaskan group, are south of the equator. Germany, France and England have partitioned that archipelago south of the equator. They have hitherto kept their hands off the Hawaiian Islands. Those are the only islands of any importance north of the equator until we almost touch the coast of Asia, except the Alaskan group. They stand where commerce from the Nicaragua Canal, if it shall ever be constructed, must touch. They stand where ships from Callao and Valparaiso must touch. They stand where every ship that goes from San Francisco to New Zealand or Australia must touch. They are 2100 miles from the city of San Francisco. They are 2100 miles from the midway island of the Alaskan group, an island with spacious harbors fit for a naval station. The Russian government, our ancient and immortal friend, is building a fleet of battleships in the Asia destined for a port near by; and her relations and ours have always been such that, under these circumstances, it is not surprising that the Hawaiian Islands, from San Francisco, we can make our commerce safe and dominate that waste of water. This is the kind of acquisition and the kind of protection I want for my country, its future and its commerce."

And yet because of a few Clyde-built ships, Senator Perkins now virtually repudiates these sentiments. Even here he does not appear to be consistent in his action. He says these vessels with Hawaiian registry would have to be admitted to American registry. That rests with Congress solely, and seems to be in the provision contained in article 3 of the proposed treaty, wherein it is expressly stated: "The existing treaties with the Hawaiian Islands, with the nations shall forthwith cease, and determine, being replaced by such treaties as may exist or may hereafter be concluded between the United States and such foreign nations. The municipal legislation of the Hawaiian Islands, not enacted for the fulfillment of the treaties so extinguished, and not inconsistent with this treaty nor contrary to the Constitution of the United States, shall remain in force until the Congress of the United States shall otherwise determine. Until legislation shall be enacted extending the United States customs laws and regulations to the Hawaiian Islands, the existing customs relations of the Hawaiian Islands with the United States and other countries shall remain unchanged."

There is nothing to restrain Congress, if the islands are to be annexed, from passing or enforcing such regulations as may seem fitting as early as it chooses, and this would surely operate to prevent the construction of a considerable number of British or other foreign vessels to claim American registry. As for the number already engaged in commerce, let them continue. These vessels are not so numerous that the competition for charters need frighten the American skipper, and, moreover, assuredly not the American shipper.

The best sugar proposition might, indeed, be a thorn in the side of Californians, but it is not the United States consumes more sugar than this State and Hawaii combined will be able to produce for years to come, and as the price is fixed (with the exception of the Sugar Trust) by the cost of foreign sugars, Californians need have no fear of the Hawaiian product. Furthermore, a point which Senator Perkins apparently overlooks, is the disposition of Hawaiian planters to turn from the production of sugar to that of coffee, as not only more profitable, but as a probable solution of the coolie-labor question. A Kanaka will not work in a cane field if he can avoid it, and hence the necessity for Asiatic labor, but coffee raising or the growing industry of planting pineapples would afford him opportunity for remunerative employment.

As for the Senator's remark about a coaling station, it is trivial. It has not been proposed, to my knowledge, to coal ocean steamers there, though Pearl Harbor might become a godsend to the mariner making his way from European waters through the Nicaragua Canal to Asiatic shores. What far-seeing naval officers and naval officials have urged for years is the acquisition of a coaling station and port of refuge at the Hawaiian Islands for naval vessels, whose limited coal-carrying capacity and independence of the traveled routes of commerce, north, south, east and west, make the location of Pearl Harbor a most desirable one. The question of the defense of these islands need not be considered at the present time. The same influences which operate to cause a tacit American protectorate to be respected by foreign powers will operate all the more strongly when once the islands are American territory. And if the navy of this country is too weak to defend these easily-defended sea-girt isles, so is it too weak to protect our own coast cities. Defeat and loss in either case mean a legacy of shame to our generation and of a stain upon the honor of our country which it will take many generations of Americans who would wish to see their country amply able to defend its own.

Respectfully,
C. E. WASHBURN.

A Question of Patriotism.

[Kern County Echo:] There are 125 young men in the San Bernardino High School, and when the principal asked how many would volunteer to march in the Memorial day procession, only seven responded. It is evident that lessons in patriotism are not being instilled in the minds of the youth in many of the schools of this State.

Such a showing as that reported is a disgrace, and when the principal asked how many would volunteer to march in the Memorial day procession, only seven responded. It is evident that lessons in patriotism are not being instilled in the minds of the youth in many of the schools of this State.

Oh, we don't know. It is hardly to be called lack of patriotism. Perhaps thoughtlessness is the thing. It is. It can scarcely be expected that the young people now growing up should have an appreciation of what the war meant. But we have no fears that in the event of another such war in the future our young people would not be found as ready to take up arms in their country's defense as were those of an earlier generation.—[Expositor.]

The Enclinal is right and the Expositor wrong. There is something wrong when boys old enough to attend high school have no appreciation of Memorial day.

The Expositor also takes a mistaken view of the day when it couples it with the events of the late war. Memorial day has passed beyond so restricted a meaning. It has now become the day for paying tribute to the country's military power—it's soldiery, and has a meaning much beyond any that grows out of the war of the rebellion.

When the youths of the country are so indifferent to this branch of our government and have no conception of the honor and respect and veneration due to a nation's soldier dead, the assurance is not complete that they would make the most zealous soldiers if the call to arms were sounded.
